

Social Networking Policy for Public Use

Access to the bank's social networking pages may be terminated if a user uploads or otherwise makes directly accessible content which infringes on any other party's copyrights, is considered offensive, off topic, spam, to be a personal attack, threatening, derogatory, non-constructive, political or religious in nature. This includes text, links, photos and images. The content will be removed upon discovery and users will be warned. American National Bank & Trust may terminate repeat offenders access to the American National Bank & Trust social networking sites.

No confidential, personal or banking information should be shared on social networking sites and will be removed upon discovery.

American National Bank & Trust does not endorse any comments made by its employees, unless they are an authorized representative of the bank. All statements and viewpoints expressed in the comments are strictly those of the commenter alone, and do not constitute an official position of American National Bank & Trust unless they are posted by an authorized representative of the bank. Employees of the bank must identify themselves in all posts. This fact may be material to other readers.

No personally identifiable or confidential information will be posted without approval of the individual to whom that information applies. An acceptable example of this includes ANB&T posting a photograph of a customer after being recognized at a bank or community function. Consent is implied at the time the photograph was taken.
